Brightlight Pictures casts Nathan Fillion and Katee Sackhoff as lead actors in "White Noise 2: The Light"

(Vancouver, B.C.) -- Brightlight Pictures today announced that Nathan Fillion ("Firefly", "Serenity") and Katee Sackhoff ("Battlestar Galactica", "Halloween: Resurrection") have been cast for the two lead roles in "White Noise 2: The Light", the sequel to the supernatural thriller and box office success "White Noise", shot in Vancouver, B.C. in 2004. Patrick Lussier is directing the script as written by Matt Venne. Shooting will begin in the Greater Vancouver area in March 2006.

In "White Noise 2: The Light", the story follows a man (Fillion) who is brought back to life after his family is murdered. After his own personal near death experience, he undergoes a transformation that allows him to see people who are on the verge of death. Trying to save their lives, he realizes that a price has to be paid for trying to change the natural order of things. Sackhoff plays a nurse who befriends Fillion after the loss of his wife.

Roque Pictures has acquired U.S. distribution rights for the film with Mandate Pictures handling foreign distribution. "White Noise 2: The Light" will be distributed in Canada by TVA. Gold Circle Films is financing the film and worldwide sales are being handled by Mandate Pictures/Gold Circle Films.

Shawn Williamson, producer and principal of Brightlight Pictures comments, "To make a sequel of such a successful movie can only be done with great care to remain faithful to the original's core elements: high caliber cast, great story and a lot of thrills. "White Noise 2: The Light" will rival the success of the first and serve as a testament to the place that Vancouver now holds on the world stage in terms of being able to attract quality productions and great talent."

The original feature film "White Noise," starred Michael Keaton ("Beetlejuice", "Batman", "Jack Frost"), and was produced by Gold Circle Films and Brightlight Pictures. The White Noise worldwide theatrical box office sales saw a total gross in excess of $100 million (Cnd Funds).
